

St. Thomas University - Retention of Students Direct from High School

This graph shows how many of the students who arrived at this university, direct from high school, were still at this same university in succeeding years. Most of the programs could lead to graduation in four years, a few require five, some students will take longer. If a student transferred to another New Brunswick University, he or she have not been tracked. This means that the retention rate is actually better than shown.

Source: Statistics Canada - Enhanced Student Information System (Dec. 1st enrolments) and MPHEC.