

As a volunteer firefighter I am expected to do all in my power to aid and assist those who require my help . Yet, the government has stated that my services are not important enough to fairly compensate me if I am injured.I am a woman who works part-time ,am available to assist on a call during the daytime as well as night and would not like to lose any of what little money I make due to a unfair policy.I am not asking the government to pay for my services only to compensate me fairly in the event of an injury.

Cathy Reynolds